

This web app will comb through sports related subreddits and find the most highly voted posts that contain a gif video during the specified time period. The top five of these posts will be displayed on the page above. The hero video will be the highest rated votes and the next four will have their thumbnails displayed below. To play a gif, the user will simply click the thumbnail and the gif will appear in the hero window.

This project will use jQuery for page manipulation, the Bootstrap framework for layout, and will receive data from Reddit's API to source content.

Mobile Layout

